

YOU COMMENTED SEATTLE · HERE'S THE STARTER PACK

Seattle: your first weekend

Five neighborhoods, one perfect weekend, and where to eat, from a Seattle native. No rankings, just where to start.

FIVE NEIGHBORHOODS TO WALK FIRST

Ballard. The old maritime main street: the Locks, Ballard Ave, breweries.

Queen Anne. Hilltop views and family blocks, minutes from downtown.

West Seattle. Alki's beach-town streak plus the Junction; ten minutes downtown by water taxi.

Capitol Hill. The dense, walk-everywhere core; Pike/Pine energy, Volunteer Park calm.

Madison Park. Lakefront village life: a beach, coffee, and quiet streets.

THE FIRST WEEKEND

Saturday

Pike Place before 9am, then the rebuilt waterfront and Overlook Walk. Water taxi across Elliott Bay, walk Alki Beach. Dinner on Ballard Ave.

Sunday

Gas Works Park for the skyline (watch a seaplane land), brunch in Wallingford. Climb the Volunteer Park water tower, then coffee on Capitol Hill.

EAT & DRINK, BY STREET

Ballard Ave NW for dinner and a nightcap. Pike/Pine and Melrose Market on Capitol Hill. The Junction and Alki Ave in West Seattle. My full pin-by-pin map: comment FOODIE.

TWO PARKS THAT EXPLAIN THE CITY

Discovery Park: 560 acres of sea cliffs, forest, and tidal beach. Go for the quiet. Gas Works Park: the skyline from kite hill. This is what a Tuesday evening looks like here.

Want the full 70-neighborhood guide? DM NEIGHBORHOODS. Moving here? DM SHORTLIST and I'll narrow it to five for you.
